WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—Adjournment of the first session of the 76th congress by late afternoon hours was the goal of House and Senate leaders today as they pushed for agreement on conflicting provisions of the third deficiency appropriation bill.

Long Battle
Weary after more than six months of legislative battling, members of both houses eagerly awaited the gavel's fall signifying the close of one of the most hectic parliamentary sessions in recent years.

Adjournment fever, inflamed by continued Washington heat, portended a long battle.

Britain Needs Time To Build More Ships

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, August 5—Naval authorities today agreed that, in spite of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's warning many months of feverish ship building will be necessary before Britain can dispatch a fleet to protect her Far Eastern interests.

During the recess of parliament until October 3, therefore, Chamberlain and his ministers, having admitted their present impotence

State Police To Make Arrests In Oil Lease Fraud

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5—Pennsylvania state motor police expected to make additional arrests today in an alleged $250,000 oil lease fraud scheme reported to have claimed dozens of victims in at least 15 states.

They are Erich Eisner, whose passport expires in ten days, and William Pachner, who said he had little hope of being able to stay in this country permanently. Both identified themselves as Czechoslovak newspaper correspondents.

The "suicide" group is said to meet regularly in a west side hall, shunning talk of death, but resigned without exception to inflicting it upon themselves if necessary.

Langer owned a $1,500 textile mill and a large department store in Prague prior to the German invasion. He said he salvaged less than $10,000 in a forced sale of his properties before fleeing to England.

At press time today officers with a pulmometer were endeavoring to revive Tony Bovo, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bovo of 2 North Wayne street, who sank in water beyond his depth at the Coney swimming hole in the Mahoning river near 1:35.

WILL MODERNIZE ALL EQUIPMENT

With its business here on the increase and with merchandising space handicapped, Sears-Roebuck & Company today disclosed it has negotiated another 10-year lease on its retail store at 26-28 North Jefferson street and has mapped a major modernization program for the entire building.

Add Floor

A new floor will be added to the present two-story brick structure. That project alone will involve an expenditure ranging from $40,000 to $50,000, according to the building owners, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clyde Gilligan.

The Sears organization itself plans to follow up the new building work with a modernization of all store equipment. That is expected to necessitate an outlay of thousands of dollars.

Proof of Firm's Faith

Officials of the Sears firm, here and in Chicago, expressed faith in the city's economic future and indicated their signing of the 10-year lease—their first 10-year lease will expire in February of 1940—demonstrates the degree of that faith.

Harry V. Girard, manager here, declared:

"We of the Sears organization have faith in this city, and I believe this improvement proves it."

J. Clyde Gilligan said that construction of the new third floor will commence shortly. The store modernization will come later. At present the store's sales space occupies nearly three full floors, the basement and first and second floors.

News of the signing of the lease was welcomed by Greater New Castle Association officials and business leaders.

Independence Shown In 76th Congress

First Session Sees New Deal Measures Hit

Slashed Relief Bills, Repealed Undistributed Profits Tax

NATIONAL DEFENSE GETS HUGE AMOUNT

Congress came into session on January 3, and immediately served notice of its independence by slashing President Roosevelt's request for $875,000,000 additional relief funds. While supporting the administration on many big issues, the congress flatly rejected some of the major measures proposed by the White House.

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The first session of the 76th congress faced adjournment today on a record of revolt against extreme new dealism, support for President Roosevelt's National defense policy and appropriations which make almost certain another $3,000,000,000 treasury deficit.

Notable Decision

Notable decisions of the rebellious session, frequently ruled by a coalition of Republicans and revolting Democrats, include:

1. Revised relief policy by both slashing first relief bills and placing restriction on last measure; rejected the Roosevelt lending program and rebuffed him on foreign policy.

2. Whole-heartedly launched the nation on its greatest peace-time national defense policy, voting $2,000,000,000 for maintenance and expansion of army and navy with intention of defending western hemisphere.

3. Went beyond president's budget to vote appropriations of over $13,000,000,000 in contradiction to the lending program.

Farm Program Stand

Congress hewed the line for the new deal by extending many of its emergency measures, failing to break down its farm program, refusing to revise new deal labor laws and expanding its far-flung social security program.

Only when new deal proposals went beyond the present boundaries did congress successfully rebel.

The resurgent of Republicanism in last November's election, which brought 169 Republicans into the house and many into the senate, paved the way for the revolts.

Outstanding enactments of the session follows:

Social security revision—by postponing scheduled increase in pay-roll tax for old-age security on January 1, 1940, and other changes congress voted tax savings estimated at $905,000,000. Expanding the act, it liberalized benefits by an estimated $1,900,000,000. It provided for commencement of old-age benefits payments on January 1, 1940, instead of 1942, and permitted those becoming 65 in 1939 to qualify. Brought 1,100,000 additional persons in system. Rejected the Townsend and kindred national old-age pension plan.

Tax Repudiation

Tax revision—repudiated an extreme new deal policy of measuring taxes on corporations by their undistributed profits. Returned to previous flat tax principle for corporations. Relaxed other provisions in an effort to encourage business revival. Undistributed profits tax was repealed despite Mr. Roosevelt's defense of it within year. Extended taxation to 3,800,000 federal and state employees by making their salaries subject to income taxation.

APPROPRIATION BILL APPROVAL TO END SESSION

tended speedy agreement to controversial items in the appropriations measure.

While other minor matters were on the legislative calendars, the appropriation bill was the key to action.

The house passed the $215,000,000 bill only after cutting it to $54,000,000. The senate restored $119,000,000 of commodity credit corporation funds and other miscellaneous items, finally raising the measure to an estimated $190,000,000.

Not a member of the senate knew the real total of the bill, because it was brought on the floor immediately after house passage. The Senate appropriations committee pushed it along so fast that there was no time to get printed copies from the government printing office.

Accept Restorations

Assurances from house leaders that most of the restorations by the senate would be accepted, virtually cleared the way to quitting by 5 p. m. at the latest.

Social security law amendments pegging the present one per cent social security tax at its present level for another year were approved by the house at the last moment, and moved into position for certain senate approval during the forenoon.

Other minor legislative measures on the calendar were not expected to delay adjournment.

Senate advocates of WPA prevailing wages, measures lifting the WPA compulsory furlough after 18 months of work, and other amendments to the deficiency bill were quickly blocked by the upper house as it ploughed through the deficiency measure. It appeared this morning that the skeletonized version of the bill approved by the Senate would be written into law.

The Senate was expected to dispose of all minor proposals in quick order this morning, and bring Congress to an end during the early afternoon.

A series of legislative measures providing for between-the-session investigations were on the slate and were likely to be approved.

Pa Newc noted the other day that W. H. The last talk he had with Lincoln was when he gave his famous Gettysburg address. "I also voted for Lincoln," says Mr. Rodgers, "too bad we do not have more men like him to-day."

By the death of James Peebles of Scott township, Lawrence county has lost one of its most ardent supporters of Prohibition. Mr. Peebles espoused the temperance cause when he became a voter, some sixty years ago. He has been a consistent follower of it ever since. He has been a leader in his party, yet well knowing that it was doomed to defeat, still hoping that the public conscience would some day turn.

By his adherence to principle, however, Mr. Peebles won the respect and esteem of all parties.

In his capacity of the marriage license docket, Probateary John A. Edgar has some unusual experiences. The other day a couple from a neighboring town applied for a license. Asked if he had ever been married before, the bridegroom replied that he had and had been divorced. "What was the date of your divorce?" asked Edgar. The man stuck his right forefinger on his temple and assumed an attitude of thought, but could not remember. "Wait a minute and I'll find out," he said, "my former wife is out in the car." And he went out and got the date. It developed that the former wife had driven her former husband and his would-be new bride here to get their marriage license. The former wife has already re-married.

Those affected by the ruling are: Charles F. Uhl, U.S. attorney at Pittsburgh, and his assistant, John D. Ray, both candidates for state offices, and U. S. Attorney Joseph B. Frazier, Jr., of Chattanooga, a candidate for Congress. Ray is a former New Castle man.

The Hatch bill, which prohibits political activity by all federal personnel except the chief executive, members of Congress, the Cabinet and handful of high officials, was signed earlier this week by President Roosevelt.

Immediately after the measure became law Murphy announced that one of the first rulings would cover the two Pittsburgh officials.

Uhl is a candidate for common pleas judge in Somerset county. Ray seeks the post of district attorney in Beaver county.

Somerset, Pa., Aug. 5.—U. S. Attorney Charles F. Uhl had some "legal doubt" today over Attorney General Frank Murphy's ruling regarding his status as a judgeship candidate under the Hatch act, but said he would be quick to comply with the resignation order.

Murphy held that Uhl and his assistant, John D. Ray, both candidates could not campaign for other state positions while serving in government jobs under provisions of the Hatch act. Said Uhl:

"The final legal date for withdrawal passed several days before President Roosevelt signed the bill. There is, therefore, serious legal doubt that it would apply in my case. It was my understanding a decision would not be made until later when my position had been made clear to the attorney general."

He added that if Murphy felt he should resign, he would do so immediately.

"I am in the race for judge to stay," he said.

Naval experts held that, in view of the European situation, it would be nearly two years before the current ship-building program would provide the British navy with sufficient strength that some capital ships could be spared for Oriental waters.

The first of Britain's nine new battleships will not go into commission until 1941.

That the fighting aspects of Red Russian cooperation with the western democracies now is to be stressed was shown in the revelation that William Strang, head of the Central European department of the British foreign office, soon is to break off his special diplomatic mission to Moscow.

Strang, who was sent to Moscow to help negotiate a three power alliance when Russia balked at British terms, will return empty-handed, but British spokesmen argue that this means only that political palaver is to be replaced by positive discussions as to what each army and navy is to do cooperatively in the event of another German coup.

While the Danzig situation has faded into the back-ground, Britain's alertness is being dramatized by land, sea and air maneuvers involving more than 60,000 soldiers, hundreds of airplanes, and more than 160 fighting ships.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

BE COURTEOUS TO CHILDREN

Often in this column I have pleaded for more courtesy toward children.

You may have come to the conclusion that I believe they should not learn to be courteous to us and that they should be expected to interrupt us whenever they please. I don't believe any such thing; but I do believe that since we are older, we should take the first step in courtesy by proving ourselves well-bred in our relations with our children.

The only child, when treated with great patience and consideration, may acquire the habit of expecting us to drop everything immediately at any time he demands attention of us. The young child, particularly, may attempt to exact of us the most extreme attention, even in very trying moments.

When you are talking on the telephone, the child of two or three should learn to wait until you have hung up the receiver to have your attention, unless he is in danger. Let him learn to do so very early. If he persists, ask the person on the other end of the line to excuse you a moment while you command the child to sit in a chair for 15 minutes, say, measured by the clock; or, if necessary, while you employ some more effective means. Get results.

Make Them Short

If at all possible, make your telephone conversations reasonably short. Of course, you cannot always do so and the child must learn to wait.

You are busily engaged at something in the midst of it, and the child wants to have you help him with a toy. Let him wait a reasonable time until you have finished. Then don't forget the child. If you are talking to your neighbor, Mrs. Toole, you will not expect your child to hammer you, tug at your dress (if he can reach it) and yell at you continuously, just to enjoy your attention. Frequently his only motive is to keep you from giving attention to some one other than himself.

On the other hand, there are scores of times when you can just as well respond to him at once as if you waited several minutes.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

JUST IMAGINE!

The MacMillan Company has published recently "Notes on the Way" by Viscountess Rhonda. Some of these "Notes" are going the rounds of the newspapers and the various English publications just now, because of the cleverness of the Viscountess, one in particular concerning a friend of the Viscountess, two young girls and a young person.

It seems that this friend, in the island of Guernsey one day settled down in a small, deserted bay to read, hidden behind a sand dune.

Presently two young girls came along and seeing no one, undressed and stretched out to sun-bathe.

Soon thereafter a person appeared carrying a camera and believing himself alone left his clothes on the beach and swam around the neighboring headland.

Out from behind their sand dune stole the two girls to where the persons clothes lay, picked up his camera and each snapped a picture of the other. After which they replaced the camera containing these candid portraits and returned to their hiding place.

Everything else is left by the Viscountess to the imagination of the reader and that is where her cleverness as a writer appears.

Just imagine the person having the films from his camera developed and printed and finding these pictures among them. Also, naturally, he would have taken the films to be developed and printed by one whom he knew and who knew him.

My! what a lot of explanation there would have to be.

CRANKMIRE ON FREEDOM

"There's nobody here," said Old Crankmire, "that's sneakingly spying on me."

Afraid and suspicious of stranger or friend I've never a reason to be. I can follow my will to the end of my days and may do as I please with my own.

And that's something a tyrant will never allow for fear he will be overthrown.

"There's nobody forcing our children to goosestep and shoulder a gun. Their lives are not broken to service before they are scarcely begun. Our schools and our churches are open; our press prints the news of the hour.

And that's something a tyrant will never allow for fear of being stripped of his power.

"There's nobody dying at sunrise for reasons withheld from his friends. There's nobody watching the earner and checking each dollar he spends.

Here man is a person respected and to none need he knuckle or bow.

And that is the blessing of freedom, which tyrants will never allow.

What's What At A Glance

Trip In Blimp Makes Stewart A Fan Held Best For Sightseeing Purpose Recalls Trip In Old Army Airplane

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Nearly

everyone has ridden in an airplane, many folk a great many times. Not so many have ridden in dirigibles.

For one thing, there are not nearly so many of them as there are of planes. Some sort of a plane is available at almost any whistling post. So far as I know there are only six dirigibles in the country at present, and they're only blimps.

The Goodyear company owns them and keeps them on the job at as many strategic tourist centers scattered throughout the United States.

The one in Washington does more business than the other five combined. It doesn't pay at that, except possibly as a Goodyear advertisement. It circles round and round above the capital on every pleasant day, making four or five trips per diem. The fare is $3 per passenger,

but it can carry only six in hot summer weather. When it's colder the gas has more lifting power and it can accommodate eight. Even at that rate it's no money maker.

Anyway, I made a flight in it recently. As I've also been aloft in a few planes, I know now how to compare the rival forms of aviation.

In order to get somewhere in a hurry a blimp isn't 1-2-3 alongside a heavier-than-air craft. The latter travels a mile a minute or a whole lot faster. A blimp can't keep up with a fast railroad train. For sightseeing purposes, however, a blimp has it all over a plane. The thing hovers and gives you a chance to take a look. A plane whizzes so fast that you see scarcely a thing, except just as you take off or approach terra firma. A blimp is as comfortable as an easy chair, too.

For my taste there's a disagreeable vibration about a plane.

Planes Scare Me, Too

Another item—planes scare me.

I had an experience with one once from which I've never recovered.

It was right after the war. I was running a little English language periodical in Latin America—

Buenos Aires. A Yankee concern hit on the idea of developing a South

American market for its flying machines. It wouldn't have been bad if it had been any good. The southern continent is skimpily supplied with railroads. Its highways verge on the impassable in wet weather. Aviation ought to be just the thing—and probably is today.

But that was 20 years ago.

Those planes were a bunch of left-over wartime crates, tied together with twine and chicken wire.

The North American company, in wanting my favorable publicity, invited me to try a flight with one of its pilots. I took it. It was a trip from Buenos Aires across the Rio de la Plata, to Montevideo, and back.

First we sputtered about a mile and a half heavenward. Then (with a horrid clatter of loose nuts and bolts) we'd swish a mile toward the earth before we could recover ourselves. Finally, we got to Montevideo alive—but I cruised back to Buenos Aires by sea.

I've never fancied airplanes since.

In that era dirigibles had an important drawback also. They inflated them with hydrogen. Given that gas so much as an angry look and it was apt to burst into flames. These present blimps are helium lifted. On this recent voyage of mine we scratched matches and smoked cigarettes ad lib. Helium can't explode.

BUT, within the last week, a truly remarkable decision has been reached. On the authority of the most favored of all the White House journalists, a man closer to the President and the so-called "inner circle" than any other writer, so

Young People To Have Charge Of Park Sunday Services

Calvin Winder Park Preacher

Student Minister Will Be Heard; Young People In Complete Charge

FINE PROGRAM FOR UNION SERVICE

The Park committee of the New Castle Ministerial Association has planned a special service for this Sunday at Cascade Park. The service, at 7 p.m., will be in charge of the young people of the churches of the community; the committee which arranged for the service consists of Harold Booth, president of the New Castle sub-district Epworth Leagues; Louis Mooney of the Third United Presbyterian church to represent the Y. P. C. U.; Geraldine Fry, past president, County Christian Endeavor.

The prelude by the brass quartet will begin at 6:45; the quartet is composed of Robert Evans, David Cramer, Henry Wilkinson and Charles Coulter. They will play "Recitative and Adagio," A. Hansel; Wagnerian Selections; "Fairest Lord Jesus," R. S. Willis; and "The Lord Is In His Holy Temple".

Rev. Thos. B. Shearer will present the committee who will have charge of the service.

Harold Booth will have charge of the devotions, assisted by Tom Grit-

Louis Mooney had the arranging of the music and will present George Kyle of the Third U. P.; also a mixed quartet composed of Virginia Roberts, Ralph Mooney, Charlene Bates, and George Kyle; they will sing two special numbers, and George Kyle will lead the singing. Miss Roberts will serve as accompanist for the service.

Will Present Speaker

Miss Geraldine Fry arranged for the speaker of the evening and will present Calvin Winder of the Plain-grove Presbyterian church, now a student in the Presbyterian Seminary at Louisville. When Mr. Winder was at home he was very active in County Christian Endeavor; his old friends will be glad for this opportunity to hear him.

The offertory will be a cornet solo by Robert Evans, the postlude by the brass quartet, "Now the Day Is Over".

Through Harold Booth the Epworth Leagues of the district have been invited to attend the service. Louis Mooney has had the inviting of United Presbyterian groups. Geraldine Fry has had the inviting of the Christian Endeavor groups.

All presidents of young peoples societies are requested to report at the band stand and sit together, seats will be reserved.

As this is the first time the Ministerial Association has made provisions for a young people's night during the union outdoor services it is hoped there will be a generous response to this effort of having all young people's societies having a union service. While the service is arranged by and for young people all those who care to attend will be welcomed at the meeting.

Kiwanis Club Takes Action To Secure Respirator For Afflicted Ones Here

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO BE VOLUNTARY

As a result of action taken today by the New Castle Kiwanis club, a lung respirator, commonly known as an "Iron Lung" which will be useful in assisting infantile paralysis victims and victims of other diseases which attack breathing action, will undoubtedly be secured for local use in the near future.

Two recent cases, in which the use of such an apparatus might have saved the lives of victims of infantile paralysis, have developed a need for a respirator, and the public will be invited to contribute to the fund.

An account has been established at the Citizens National Bank, called the "Iron Lung Fund," and subscriptions to this fund may be made at Kerr's Jewelry store on North Mill street, or Eckerd's Drug Store on East Washington street, President Jesse N. Kerr announced this morning.

Subscriptions will be entirely voluntary, the idea being that every public spirited citizen can have an opportunity to assist in this worthwhile movement if he so desires. There will be no solicitation, and the support of other service clubs and civic organizations will be sought in the matter, however, and they will be invited to cooperate.

Homer James Doing Duty Work In Raising Squalus At Sea

Homer James, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Homer A. Pence, 20 North Beaver street, who is a seaman in the United States Navy and has been stationed at Providence, Rhode Island, is assigned for duty work on the U.S. Falcon, submarine rescue ship, the latter being one of four ships which are attempting to raise the sunken submarine, Squalus, off the coast of Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

In a letter written to his grandparents, Mr. James reports that on July 31, volunteers were solicited at the land station for the raising work and he enlisted, here are four ships grouped around the tragic spot of the recent sinking, the Falcon, Sacramento, Samoamore and Wandit. He does duty work on the Falcon by day and is quartered abroad the Sacramento at night for sleeping.

Most interesting to note, is the fact that a photographer from a magazine came aboard the Falcon and took pictures of the group and an individual photo of Homer, this being accomplished while work was in progress. Plans are set to have the raising completed within a three week period. The ships are anchored sixteen miles out at sea.

Mr. James enlisted the first of February this year, and was sent to the Training School at Providence, Rhode Island. He has been stationed there until the recent volunteer call came for the Falcon work. He writes that his mother is the Sacramento and that the seamen call her the "Galloping Ghost of China Coast."

Harold Holt, Jr., Summoned By Death From Rare Disease

Autopsy Will Be Performed To Try And Aid Science In Fighting "Wilms" Tumor

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—An autopsy was to be performed today on the body of two-year-old Harold Holt, Jr., in New Rochelle hospital, in the hope that his death may aid science.

Until the autopsy results have been studied, officials of the New Rochelle board of health will not write the word "Wilms tumor" on the child's death certificate.

The boy, stricken with that cancerous disease, given up for dead by Pittsburgh surgeons, was flown here March 16 from his home in Monongahela, Pa.

One of 10 children in the United States and Canada afflicted with Wilms tumor, he rallied under X-ray treatment.

Several weeks ago he was discharged from New Rochelle hospital, but was taken to the home of Dr. Alexander J. Chiklo, nationally known authority on deep therapy treatments, for further observation.

The child began losing weight. His pulse became scarcely perceptible. He was returned to the hospital nine days ago.

But his weight shrunk to 18 pounds and his skin darkened. After his death last night, hospital authorities said an "intestinal obstruction" was the direct cause of death.

Still under treatment for the same disease is Joan Menzel, 7, of Oldham, S.D., who was discharged from the state hospital June 8, but who is in a private home near the hospital.

The regular season has ended, but the camp will be occupied this afternoon and through the week-end by a party of girls from the Elm Street Branch of the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Frances Thompson of Pittsburgh was the very efficient camp director for the season. This morning she was still at camp, but expected to depart later in the day.

Cause Unknown

"It was just one of those things," he said. "It's hard to say what could have caused the fall."

The victims were about 100 feet from the face of the uncompleted tunnel when the section of rock crashed to the floor.

Leach's body was taken to an undertaking parlor in Somerset. Those of the other three victims were removed to a similar establishment at Stahlstown.

It was hours before details could be obtained, so isolated is the scene of the accident.

Two other casualties have occurred on the Turnpike project, a 162-mile highway link, Jones said. In each instance, however they were individual fatalities that might have occurred on any such project, he pointed out.

Laurel Hill is the westernmost tunnel on the "allweather" route. Originally started as one tunnel for the old South Penn railroad, which was started 75 years ago but never finished, it is now in process of re-opening.

ULTIMATE RECOVERY IN NEPHRITIS PREDICTED ON STRICT ADHERENCE TO DOCTOR'S EDICTS

When the child who has recovered from an attack of acute nephritis achieves the point at which he can begin to take exercise again, he has been lying in bed for at least a month or six weeks—often longer. The first exercise will consist of sitting up in a chair. About ten minutes of this and he will be glad to get back into bed again.

Naturally the amount of time spent out of bed will depend on the urine. If he develops a return of blood to the urine when he sits up first day, then it's back to bed for him for another period of rest before he again tries getting up.

There are three things which may cause a recurrence of nephritis: too much exercise for the patient, too much exercise for the kidneys, and a return of the infection. Knowing how harmful these things can be, we watch them very carefully. The diet is increased only when the patient is in bed and the infection is clearing. The center of infection is cleared up after the patient has reached full diet but is not yet exercising. After this, the child may begin to take some exercise.

The reason these changes are made separately is that we will know in case the blood returns to the urine, just what is causing it and how to correct it. If we increased diet, operated on the infected area and began exercise almost simultaneously, if blood showed in the urine again we wouldn't know which factor to blame.

Treatment of acute nephritis, when it isn't too seriously complicated, is simple and remarkably successful. But there must be, throughout the treatment, strict observance of orders on the part of whoever is doing the nursing—and strict obedience on the part of the patient. Given these, from 85 to 95 per cent of victims will recover.

Those who do not recover either fall before the first attack, or succeeding attacks of the disease reduce the number of organs functioning in the kidneys until no enough remain to carry out the normal functions. Occasionally children will lapse into a chronic nephritic condition; kidney damage will increase slowly until they have insufficient kidney tissue left to sustain life.

Let me impress on all parents that almost every case of nephritis caught in time, will recover. These deaths are among those who were not treated soon enough, or those in whom the source of infection wasn't removed.

I believe that many children who die of pneumonia, actually die because of nephritic complication. The child develops pneumonia, nephritis follows but is overlooked because the restlessness, the pallor, the convulsions, the delirium are all attributed to pneumonia. So for many years now I have made a daily examination of the urine of my pneumonia patients. I have frequently detected nephritis in this way and brought the victim through the illness.

From coffee in Egypt and Arabia from kola nuts in Africa.

From the guarana plant in Brazil, from tea in China and Japan.

Coffee and tea are purely stimulants.

They contain, in themselves, no intrinsic qualities.

Adding milk or cream alters them to food requiring digestion.

Sugar, added, increases their viscous or glutinous content.

Much tea or coffee may cause nervousness and insomnia.

The afternoon tea is not a bad one.

It positively reduces fatigue.

The food taken at this time contributes part of the benefit.

ALBERT W. BAUMAN

Albert W. Bauman, well known second ward resident and a former member of the New Castle School Board today announced his intention of seeking one of the two nominations for city council on the Republican ticket. His statement of announcement follows.

"The business of operating the City of New Castle is one that requires the attention of citizens who have had business experience. As one who has had experience for many years in the contracting business, as a citizen and taxpayer of New Castle for many years, and as one interested in efficient government I am a candidate for one of the two nominations for city council upon the Republican ticket.

"In my experience as a contractor I erected many structures both large and small. Among the larger ones are the Old Main building of Westminster College, the Lawrence County Home, a number of industrial buildings and others.

As a school director from 1930 to 1936 I served upon the building committee and know that on this committee we saved thousands of dollars for the taxpayers.

"If elected I expect to serve but one four year term.

The business of conducting city affairs towards the end that support might be built up for the next term might be political strategy but it is not good business nor is it good government.

"Upon the basis of business ability to handle the office I ask the consideration of the Republican voters on September 12."

Moran Confident He Can Vanquish Peterson Monday

Faces Rugged Opponent From East Liverpool In Arena

ENTIRE DOCKET LOOKS INVITING

Dolled to physical pink, fortified with a world of confidence and possessed of ability, Frankie Moran, New Castle featherweight, hopes to show Al Peterson, East Liverpool's smashing 126-pounder, "Who's Who" in the featherweight division of this district when they fight Monday night in the air-cooled Arena.

Frankie has trained vigorously and should he bow—and whether or not he will remains to be seen—he will have no alibi, he said today when he left the "shower" following a brisk work-out in the gymnasium.

"I realize Peterson is good. Further, I know he is a good puncher. If he can out-box and out-punch me I will not utter one word because I am in excellent physical condition," Moran said.

"Do you believe you can beat him?" Moran was asked.

"I have never fought a fellow I did not believe I could beat," the cocky youngster answered.

"He is a good 'sooker.' He polished off Patsey Frazer," Moran was told.

"True you are, but I am a good puncher myself. I can hit with either hand and because of this I believe I possess an edge," Moran asserted.

In explanation of the foregoing assertion, he implied that he has stopped foes with both right and left while Peterson's knockout fist is his right. Frankie believes he has "one fist the best of the fight" if it begins.

Buster Lottette of Homestead, a veteran in the amateur ranks, will take on Buzz Mooney of Rochester, who was beaten by Moran some time ago. They should put up a fast fight.

The Larry Regal of Butler vs Terry Jackson of Youngstown middle-weight fight most likely will turn out to be a four-star fight with plenty of hard punching devoid of science.

Arkett Meets Seasoned Opponent

Jumping-Jack Mike Wukas of Aliquippa, who fought several main bouts here, will oppose rough-and-ready Charlie Arkett of West Pittsburg. When Arkett is right he is a terror. When off distance, he doesn't look so good. They are lightweights.

However, the Wukas-Arkett fight matches up like a main bout. If Arkett makes a rushing attack he will find Wukas ready to meet him.

Mike likes to chase a foe to the ropes and usually hands out a grueling dish to anyone worked into a corner.

The Sully-Tonti of Midland and Al Starevic of Youngstown 155-pound setto will be a punch-for-punch affair. It would not be surprising were one of the pair to be dragged to a corner, knocked out.

Ted Delarado, the Golden Gloves welterweight king of East Liverpool, claims he was not at his best in his last appearance here. If Bobby Bright is as keen as his name implies the fans should witness action plus.

Emil Cannell, known hereabouts as the "Surprise Kid" because he upsets the dopes upon the least provocation, will take on Ralph Gerace of Rochester 118. Fans can rest assured Emil will do his best to return Gerace home vanquished.

The advance sale for Monday night has been more brisk than it has been for several shows because of the punching ability of the amateurs on the calendar approved by the State Athletic commission and the A. A. U.

The fans also realize that whenever amateurs enter a ring they strive earnestly to creep up the amateur ladder. Very few amateurs who have appeared here have been found to start.

Although the weather was warm outside the Arena at the last show it was comfortably cool in the Arena which has one of the best cooling systems in the city and fans can see hot fights in a cool place regardless of whether or not rain descends.

Slovak Old Timers Defeat 1939 Team By Score Of 9 To 8

"Mig" Kirol, Steve Wrona, Pete Carik And "Rosey" Russell Star For Old Timers

There are a lot of red faces and sore arms and legs on the South Side today. The red faces belong to the 1939 Slovak Club, first-half champs of the City Baseball league and the sore arms and legs belong to the Slovak Old Timers who last night at Clifton Flats Field showed the youngsters a thing or two of how the game of baseball is really played. It was 9 to 8 in favor of the Old Timers after Pete Carik slid in with the winning run in the last of the seventh inning.

Hundreds of fans jammed the field to watch the 1939 team hand the Old Timers a trouncing—but it was a different story. George "Mig" Kirol pulled a "Fireman" Brown stunt and rescued Steve "Ace" Wrona when the latter got in hot water.

Everybody Pitches

About everybody but the water boy pitched for the 1939 Slovak team—Janoski, Balla, Coates, Lenhart, Koszela, Adams and Dugan, and Henry "Dugout" Dluganski was the losing pitcher. "Mig" Kirol with his twisting tooler was the winning pitcher.

Extra-base blows were hit by Joe Wrona, this one going for a home, and doubles by M. Burdo and Eddie Kirol.

The Old Timers waited until the last of the seventh to turn the steam on—and they did turn it on for seven runs. Five pinch hitters were used in the seventh by the Old Timers and five of them got hits. There were two out when the winning run was scored.

Steve "Rosey" Russell played a bang-up game at second for the stars of yesterdays. He handled four chances with aplomb of a Pep Young and did not have an error. The 1939 Slovak Club simply went to pieces and had seven errors.

Johnny Stoffick and Michael "Jake" Babovky umpired the game and did a swell job. P. S.—they are still alive.

Score by innings—R. H. E. Slovak Club .202 301—8 7 7 Old Timers .020 0007—9 10 4

Batteries—Slovak Club, Balla, Coates, Lenhart, Adams, Koszela, Janoski, Dugan and Wrona. Old Timers, Steve Wrona, "Mig" Kirol and Casey Fruitt.

Market Absorbs Further Light Selling At Start And Then Rallies

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—The stock market rallied modestly today from the preceding session's substantial reaction, after absorbing further light selling at the opening.

A few leaders were up a point at the day's tops, but improvement generally was limited to fractions. Trading was at the usual sluggish Saturday pace.

The majority of stocks were lower in initial transactions, but prices firmed almost immediately and continued upward through the first hour. Best levels were shaded in final dealings.

Loft continued the most active issue, and was up close to a point at one time. Hupp Motor Car lagged, slipping under 1 to a new 1939 low.

Union Carbide, U. S. Gypsum Case, Kennecott, U. S. Steel and Crucible were among the few to register extreme gains of a point or better. Elsewhere fractional gains were the rule.

Foreign security markets enjoyed the usual Saturday holiday, with London also to be closed for the British bank holiday Monday.

No New Information In Dombrowski Case

State Motor Police Investigate At Clairton And McKeesport

State motor police and County Detective Paul Welsh, acting upon orders of District Attorney John G. Lamoree, today returned to Mrs. Edward Dombrowski, Jackson avenue, the auto used by the late Edward, to take his uncle, Ignatz "on a ride" from which neither returned from Cochran hill, near Hoy Hollow, last Monday night.

Edward shot Ignatz then slew himself with the same gun.

Motor police went to the Irvin works, Clairton and McKeesport yesterday. He worked at Irvin and roomed at McKeesport.

They could find no new angles to the double crime.

They were told that some time previous to the crime here, a friend and Edward discussed target shooting and when the friend said he had no revolver, Edward replied that he had one.

Although the motive and revolver ownership phases are yet lacking, state motor police developed for a certainty through fingerprints that Edward fired all eight shots that left the revolver after he apparently fired one shot through a canister to test its efficiency because the revolver used has not been manufactured for 10 years.

After firing through the canister it is supposed he put a pin in the auto horn to either deaden the sound of the shots or alarm some one so their bodies could be found after the twin crime. Then he killed his uncle and himself.

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—In a brief but solemn ceremony, Charles Alvin Jones of Pittsburgh, defeated Democratic candidate in the last Pennsylvania gubernatorial election, today was induced into office as a judge of the U. S. circuit court of appeals.

While some 200 spectators—including Jones' wife, Isabella, and their 17-year-old son, Charles, Jr.—stood in rapt attention, Senior Judge John Biggs, Jr., administered the oath of office. Judge Jones repeated the oath and then took his place on the flower-banked bench.

Seated with him were Judges Biggs, Albert B. Maris, William Clark and Francis Biddle. Gifford K. Wright, president of the Pennsylvania Bar association, and Mark W. Acsorn, former law partner of the new jurist, spoke.

LIVESTOCK

Do You Remember?

Compiled And Presented For Publication In The News By Fred B. Sankey, President Of Old Timer's Day Association

Old Timers Day Cascade Park, Wednesday, August 16, 1939.

R. E. Bennett had a tin shop in a log house on Washington street, and in 1876, he and Dr. J. J. Wallace were school compatriots.

Throughout this column mention has been made of many soldiers who have enlisted in the army and fought for their country in all the different wars. Lawrence county has furnished her full quota, and all the townships have been represented. Many of our readers will find mentioned the names of their ancestors, and like Demosthenes can say: "For my part, I consider the highest praise of our ancestors to be the length of time which has elapsed, during which no other men have been able to excell the pattern of their deeds."

City Hall was built in 1875, and the lot was purchased from Jesse Moore for $15,000. Contractors Vogan and Preston, original contract price $31,000. The Lawrence Guards occupied the third floor, and the police department was in the basement.

At this time Oil City had an unbeatable club, the "Senecas", and the Neshannocks offered them $75 to bring their famous battery, Hawk and Hall, to New Castle for a game. Said Bob Whaley: "The Senecas were beating everybody, and we licked them, 29 to 5. Cummings of the Philadelphia league team, the first curved baseball pitcher, came here with his club for a game one year, and the Neshannocks were the only amateur team to score a run on them. Then the next year, after we got used to the curved ball, we beat them twice. Link Lowe played on the Detroit and Boston Clubs."

Charlie Power, a newspaper man, was another New Castle boy who made the grade and pitched for the St. Louis league team, and later employed by the "Pittsburgh Leader" on their staff.

Leopold Rohrer came to New Castle in 1871, and in 1873 established the Rohrer gun store which has been operated ever since. Since this item was written, Mr. Rohrer died and will be missed by his sorrowing friends.

Wm. A. Stritmater, a well known citizen, had a large department store

"Pooh! Pooh! Nazis!"

Vera Hruba

Beauteous Vera Hruba, Czechoslovak ice skating star, now performing in New York, defies Herrs Hitler, Goering and all Nazis in general and the German consul in New York in particular to make her stop dancing on ice to the tune of the Czechoslovak national anthem. When the German consul ordered her to do just that, the un-anschlussled ice queen reported: "Mr. German consul—not for one little minute can you tell me what to do. You my boss? Ha! Ha!"
